NEW YORK MAN DIES WHEN TRAPPED IN ROOM: WOMAN'S BODY IS FOUND

Woman, Thought to Have Perished, is Found in Hospital, Suffering From Fractures of Both Legs as Result of Fall Down Stairway—Fire Fighters Numb With Cold.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 18-Two lives were lost and property damage in excess of $800,000 was done by fire which destroyed two hotels and damaged the Hotel Wiltshire and the Casino, on the steel pier here, a check-up today showed.

Six persons, five of them firemen, were injured. The fire for a time threatened to sweep the entire boardwalk. Only he-W. H. Waring, Assistant roic work by fire fighters from half a dozen cities saved buildings in the vicinity.

The charred body of a woman, aged about 40, and of heavy build, was found in the ruins of the Bothwell hotel, today. The body was so badly burned, authorities said, that identification will be difficult. It is possible, they added, that the woman may be a Mrs. Myers, for whom frantic calls were received today.

James Bennett, 80, of the Bronx, New York, was the other victim. He was trapped in his room at the Bothwell hotel and, in his attempt to escape, suffered fatal injuries. A woman thought to have perished in the flames after she was seen at a fifth story window later was found in the City hospital, suffering from fractures on both legs. She fell down a flight of stairs. She is Mrs. Nettie M. Slick, of South Fork, Pa.

For three hours firemen, their faces encrusted with ice, their bodies numb with cold, hurled powerful streams from steaming nozzles upon the flames. Temperature of 15 degrees above zero neer of the department, in addresses and a penetrating wind, which fortunately blew from the northwest toward the boardwalk and away from a group of hotels in the noon day meeting in the banquet the square, made their work doubly difficult.

Lovesick Girl Tries To Take Own Life By Novel Method

PHILADELPHIA - Betty Kaplan attempted suicide by throwing herself in the path of an automobile because she was "tired of life and dis-appointed in love."

Police say the girl, who first gave her name as Copeland, attempted to end her life several weeks ago.

The attempt was frustrated by the deriness of Homer D. Yingst, driver of the car, who swerved quickly to ene side and avoided striking her. He took her to Jefferson hospital and reported the occurrence to the

Sinking Battleships

A bombshell was thrown temporarily into the naval disarmament program by the injunction suit brought against the Navy Department, to prevent the scrapping of the new battleship Washington. The destruction of that warship was agreed to by the United States in the Washington conference, as part of the adjustment by which the 5-5-3 naval ratio was to be established. Apparently it is to be sunk as planned, but the real issue is not yet disposed of.

The taxpayer inspiring the injunction proceedings insisted that the United States was dropping below her authorized ratio, and needed the Washington to help keep American naval strength equal to Great Britain's, as the Washington pact provides. Furthermore, he charged that while the United States has been lapsing from its authorized strength, Great Britain has been surpassing the strength set for both.

Such a protest tends to reopen the whole disarmament question and calls new attention to the disarmament program. There is dissatisfaction in this country with what both Britain and Japan are doing with their navies. There is some dissatisfaction, too, among the other powers to the treaty, France and Italy.

A new conference may be needed before long to clear up the matter and establish stronger "sanctions."

An obvious defect of the present arrangeis that every power is left so largely to itself to determine how far it may go in building and scrapping naval vessels. It is hard to see how the system can be kept working smoothly without some international body, representing all the naval powers concerned, to pass judicially on such matters, and let the world know what every power is

The Once-Over Hospital

The public "clinic" or "diagnostic center," some doctors term it, is the latest thing in health work. It is a place where anyone can go and be told what, if anything, is wrong with physically.

A large department of this sort is being estal lished as the result of a generous gift to one of the Kansas City hospitals. It will have equipment and an adequate staff to examine patients for many kinds of ailments ordinarily requiring specialists and costing a charged for the service. The new clinic is exgreat deal of money. Only a small fee is expected to serve not only Kansas City but neighboring cities and states.

It gives no treatment, but simply tells a patient what his condition is. Knowing that, he is free to go to any physician for treat-

There are great advantages in the method. Patients often suffer from unknown diseases, which affect them in ways having no apparent connection with the basic trouble. With the whole system examined and reported on, there is little chance of mistake. It is merly applying mechanical common sense to the ruman machine. The custom of looking over that machine regularly and thoroughly is growing; and as it grows, people enjoy better nealth and live longer.

Russia's "Fourth"

On November 7 Russia celebrated its 'Fourth of July," or as some Europeans call t, her "Bastille Day." To an intelligent American or Frenchman, there is bitter irony n coupling the Russian festival with either of those glorious days of liberation.

It was on November 7 that the "proletaran revolution" was accomplished. That is to say, it was on that day in 1917 that the Bolsheviki overthrew the reputlic established by

To celebrate the original revolution, which werthrew czardom and established a Russian republic, would have been understandable to the outer world. Free men and women, in America and France and everywhere else, could join the Russians in rejoicing over that change. But to celek rate the plunge from a free republic, promising such blessings as America and France enjoy, into a Bolshevist despotism, that is something incomprehensible to a world which has seen Bolshevism's tragic failure.

BUY NOW, OR PAY MORE

Mr. and Mrs. Careful Citizen, go now and buy what you need without further delay. Prices are low, because merchants, whose distribution of goods has been checked by abnormally warm weather in many big cities, have cut prices regardless of cot. But, cold weather is coming. And, more important the boom is here already. When prices go up on the stock exchange you know that you will soon see prices going up in the stores also. Do your shopping early and for the sake of your pocketbook this time, not merely for the sake of the overworked Christmas-time salesmen.

LITTLE LAMBS, BEWARE

The lambs are kicking up their little heels in Wall Street, brokers are happy, shearers are busy shearing, although the lambs don't know it. In two hours one day last week more than a million shares were sold. The day before that more than 2,300,000 shares, including more than 1,200,000 shares of railroad stocks. Good times are ahead, and good times at large mean higher prices in Wall Street.

But, without wishing to deprive the honest broker of his one-eighth of 1 per cent, it is only decent to warn today's little lamb with fire in his eye that soon a salt tear will put out the fire.

Wise investment makes rich men. Stock exchange gambling makes beggars.

It is a pleasure to announce that cotton went higher, although the last two weeks of excellent October weather had added 141,000 bales to the crop forecast. FLYING PULLMAN CARS

Big steamship companies think more rapidly than do our United States railroad companies. At least the bg lines already are planning lying boats carrying passengers across the Atlantic. anything is to make their ships obsolete they want to own the thing that does it.

Morr's Gest moves his extraordinary play, "The Miracle," to Cleveland after 298 performances in New York. The theater and its finances have imp oved since the days when Shakespeare was one of a noble lord's troupe of poor players. Reinhardt's "The Miracle" production cost $500,000 and took in $2,000,000 in New York. Incidentally, it paid a government tax big enough to pay the president's salary for two years and with $50,000 to spare. Mr. Gest, who made that production, and Otto H. Kahn, whose enterprise and money helped to make it possible, are to be congratulated, although they made not a cent of profit on the production.

Everybody knows that in courage the French are excelled by no race on earth. The Gauls, telling Alexander that they feared nothing except that the heavens might fall on them; proud Vercingetorix dragged behind Caesar's chariot; the noble d'Assas "dead on the f'eld of honor;" Crillon and Diguesclin, their bodies covered with scars-in front; the Frenchman that held on to the enemy's boat with his elbows after both his hands had been cut off-they all live in glory.

Science produces a new and greater French hero, Dr. Bergonie, of Bordeaux, who has just died, killed by his constant use of radium in his warfare against Weakened by radium bombardment, to which they were constantly subjected, his tissues were attacked by the cancer that he sought to conquer. His right arm was cut off, and then three fingers of his left hand. He continued at his work to the day of his death, experimenting with and lecturing on the effects of radium on the gangrene that attacked one of his remaining fingers.

To his last day he worked, enabled to endure the horr ble agony by morphine administered by his associates, never complaining, but saying toward the end, three or four more days more, and I shall be delivered."

NEWSY GOSSIP OF BIG CITIES

By DAVID M. CHURCH.

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- London's great open spaces are full of communistic talk.

The Christ'an Evidence society makes this discovery as the result of an investigation of open-air meetings in London parks. A report on the investigation was rendered at a meeting presided over by the archb shop of York.

Finsbury park, which is down in the working class resident'al district, is described as "a hotbed of Communistic atheism Feeling runs very high between the Communistic 'ideal' and the democratic 'ideal.' Much talk of sanguinary revolution interests the audiences, more than Christian evi-

Free speech has its il'ng in London's parks and despite the gret th of Communistic teaching from these unrestricted rostrums, there is little reason to suspect that the true temper of the peorle is represented here. Englishmen are sound thinkers and if they are allowed to exhaust their energy in free speech there is little energy left for revolutionary plotting. The recent general election proved this.

The Communist party in England is not growing in leaps and bounds, although it does "flourish openly," if one can believe the newspapers. Communist bookshops ply an open trade in Communistic literature and Communist meetings are undisturbed, but perhaps these ventures perm't a flame to burn itself out rather than to continually smolder.

The Red Flag." the hymn of the Communists, is probably heard in London almost as frequently as "God Save the King," but it is not altogether indicative of any w despread anti-royalist sentiment. "The Red Flag" has come to be regarded as the hymn of the people, and as such is indulged in as paean of exultation rather than the song of hopeful revolutionaries.

Communism was widely exploited during the recent election, as opponents of the Labor party harped upon alleged Communistic tendencies of the Laborites. This is despite the fact that in the election the Labor party, after denying the Communists' af.iliat'on, gave instructions that no Communist cand date should have Labor support.

As a matter of fact the Communists and the Laborites are more or less at swords' points. During the regime of Ramsay MacDonald he was regarded as bourgeo sie by the Communists, who allowed no opportunity to pass to embarrass him and his cabinet colleagues.

Communistic Sanday schools exist in England and there have been repeated demands that the government take action to close these institutions.

The Communist propaganda extends even to the English children, and a Communist newspaper is published for their benefit.

Communism may one day sweep England, but that day now seems a long, long way off, political orators notwithstanding.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Exclusive Park avenue has a gambling parlor where high stakes are played. A fortune of $300,000 was lost there recently in a single n'ght. The apartment is cradled in that supreme elegance that marks the millionaire.

The "capper" for the place is a well-known man about town. He has the habit of dropping in on the right crowd after it has been well wined and dined and he skillfully maneuvers them to the rendezvous. It is he who suggests the play and by perarrangement always loses.

For many months no one suspected him. He has the air of benevolent good fellowship. He suggests the type that arrives at his chambers nightly in silk hat and white lined Inverness cape. One thinks of Jerkins meeting him at the door and of him settling down before a great open fire place in a silk house robe for the final Scotch and soda.

AUTOMATIC TRAIN CONTROL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Experiments in the automatic control of railroad trains, ordered by the interstate commerce commission and aerried out by the leading railways and railway systems of the United States, will be one of the important develor ments in steam transportation during the coming year. The new control systems are to be installed by January 1 on 49 different railroads, each devoting approximately 100 miles to the tests.

Ultimately, it is expected, all the railroads of the country will adopt the innovation, once it has been determined which of the devices or systems are the most effective.

There has been agitation for this for more than decade. Inventors have done their work well, it is said, but the railroads have been reluctant to un dertake the sweeping change involved because of the expense. At last, however, it seems that consideration of the public welfare is to force the innovation unless the cost is found to be absolutely prohibitive. In the long run the railroads themselves will profit by the change, it is claimed, for the saving resulting from fewer accidents will run into large figures.

There are numerous automatic control systems All of them have the one purpose of eliminating the factor of human error and carelessness as a cause of railroad accidents, and this is accomplished by a device or method that slows down the speed of a train or brings it to a dead standstill when danger threatens it. The operation of the control is not dependent upon the initiative or action of engineer fireman, switchman, brakeman, signalman, or any other railway worker. It is just what its name says it is-automatic. It might also be described as in evitable, for when occasion arises for it to work accomplishes its purpose in spite of anything the trainmen can do.

DIVIDED INTO BLOCKS

Railroads of today are divided into blocks, some long and otners comparatively short. These blocks are marked by signals which tell the engineers and other trainmen whether it is safe to proceed, whether the speed of the train should be reduced or whether the train should be brought to a full stop. The signals not only tell the story as to con ditions in the block the train is about to enter, but as to conditions in the next two blocks.

However, these signals which are automatically perated for the most part, may be functioning per ctly and accidents st'll occur, due to an engineer' mistake in reading them, or his failure to see them as a result of fog or storm or other weather cond tion that man cannot control. Hence, the automatic control system which does its work with mechanical certainty. The locomotive is equipped with electrical apparatus to pick up signals transmitted by an electric current in the rails These signals are shown in the cab by a series of lights that the engineers cannot fail to see, but if he should fail to observe the warning and to act upon it, then the electric current operates the brake mechan'sm of the locomotive. When one light is shown the engineer knows that he has a clear track ahead and can proceed at full speed. If another light is flashed he is told that the next block is clear, but that there is an open switch or another train in the second block ahead and that he should slow down and observe extreme caution. The third light is the danger or stop signal, which means that there is an open switch or another train in the very next block, a third of mile ahead. When the engineer does not obey the second signal and slow down, the automatic control appa ratus acts immediately and the speed of the train is reduced to what it should be, and if for any reson the third light should be ignored the safety vice brings the train to a dead stop. This stop be a sudden one and the passengers may not enjoy the experience, but they will not find it as disagree able as a collision with another train or a wreck caused by running into an open switch. One control system has a whistle as well as the light signals, and if the engineman does not heed the warning of the second or th'rd light his attention is arrested by the whistle, which is very loud, and serves also to give notice to the passengers that a sudden stop may be expected. ENGINEER ALWAYS IN CONTROL

Normally the engineer is always in full control of his train. By acting before the automatic device acts after the warning he can reduce speed or bring h's train to a standstill without the slightest interference from the control system. It is only when something goes wrong with the human machine that the electrical machine gets busy.

For instance, the engineer may be reckless or through an error of judgment may run his locome tive at a speed that is a menace to traffic. Then the control system operates automatically to hold him down to a safe speed limit. Accidents of the most disastrous character have occurred as a result of an engineer dying at his post, or becoming otherwise incapacitated suddenly. The freman in tho very cab with him has failed to note anything wrong until it was too late to avert the ca astrophe. Not ing of that kind can happen, it is said, with a modern automatic control system in operation.

It is claimed for these systems that they will be found adaptable to almost any conditions. They work with equal efficiency on single or double track railroads, and with trains running in either direc-tion. Also they may be operated effectively in yards and terminals that have the most complicated systems of interlocking switches.

They may be used on roads using electric power as well as on the steam roads, and perhaps that earliest effective demons ration in this country in the operation of the subways of New York There is nothing more terrible to contemplate than an underground wreck, and when the subways were planned it was realized nothing that human in genuity could dev.se shou'd be left none to insure the safety of the millions of passengers who would patronize the new traffice system.

An automatic control was ad pied that is said to have functioned perfectly, it being absolutely impossible for one train to run into another. The motorman might die in his cab, b t the train would come to a stop and no other train could come into the same block with it. It has been the boast of the subway manage ment that it has never had a walk with a fatality that could be charged to any fault or accident of operation. Perhaps the year wall come when the management of the steam railroads of the country can make a similar boast.

Sinking Battleships

A bombshell was thrown temporarily into the naval disarmament program by the injunction suit brought against the Navy Department, to prevent the scrapping of the new battleship Washington. The destruction of that warship was agreed to by the United States in the Washington conference, as part of the adjustment by which the 5-5-3 naval ratio was to be established. Apparently it is to be sunk as planned, but the real issue is not yet disposed of.

The taxpayer inspiring the injunction proceedings insisted that the United States was dropping below her authorized ratio, and needed the Washington to help keep American naval strength equal to Great Britain's. as the Washington pact provides. Furthermore, he charged that while the United States has been lapsing from its authorized strength, Great Britain has been surpassing the strength set for both.

Such a protest tends to reopen the whole disarmament question and calls new attention to the disarmament program. There is dissatisfaction in this country with what both Britain and Japan are doing with their navies. There is some dissatisfaction, too, among the other powers to the treaty, France

An obvious defect of the present arrangeis that every power is left so largely to in 1917. itself to determine how far it may go in building and scrapping naval vessels. It is hard to see how the system can be kept working smoothly without some international body, representing all the naval powers concerned, to pass judicially on such matters, and let the world know what every power is

The Once-Over Hospital

The public "clinic" or "diagnostic center," some doctors term it, is the latest thing in health work. It is a place where anyone can go and be told what, if anything, is wrong with physically.

A large department of this sort is being estal lished as the result of a generous gift to one of the Kansas City hospitals. It will have equipment and an adequate staff to examine patients for many kinds of ailments ordinarily requiring specialists and costing a charged for the service. The new clinic is exgreat deal of money. Only a small fee is expected to serve not only Kansas City but neighboring cities and states.

It gives no treatment, but simply tells a patient what his condition is. Knowing that, he is free to go to any physician for treat-

There are great advantages in the method. Patients often suffer from unknown diseases, which affect them in ways having no apparent connection with the basic trouble. With the whole system examined and reported on, there is little chance of mistake. It is merly applying mechanical common sense to the ruman machine. The custom of looking over that machine regularly and thoroughly is growing; and as it grows, people enjoy better realth and live longer.

Russia's "Fourth"

On November 7 Russia celebrated its 'Fourth of July," or as some Europeans call t, her "Bastille Day." To an intelligent American or Frenchman, there is bitter irony n coupling the Russian festival with either of those glorious days of liberation.

It was on November 7 that the "proletaran revolution" was accomplished. That is to say, it was on that day in 1917 that the Bolsheviki overthrew the reputlic established by Kerensky.

To celebrate the original revolution, which overthrew czardom and established a Russian republic, would have been understandable to the outer world. Free men and women, in America and France and everywhere else, could join the Russians in rejoicing over that change. But to celel rate the plunge from a free republic, promising such blessings as America and France enjoy, into a Bolshevist despotism, that is something incomprehensible to a world which has seen Bolshevism's tragic failure.

LITTLE LAMBS, BEWARE

The lambs are kicking up their little heels in Wall Street, brokers are happy, shearers are busy shearing, although the lambs don't know it. In two hours one day last week more than a million shares were sold. The day before that more than 2,300,000 shares, including more than 1,200,000 shares of railroad stocks. Good times are ahead, and good times at large mean higher prices in Wall Street.

But, without wishing to deprive the honest broker of his one-eighth of 1 per cent, it is only decent to warn today's little lamb with fire in his eye

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- London's great open spaces are full of communistic talk.

The Christ'an Evidence society makes this discovery as the result of an investigation of open-air meetings in London parks. A report on the investigation was rendered at a meeting presided over by the archb shop of York.

Finsbury park, which is down in the working class resident'al district, is described as "a hotbed of Communistic atheism Feeling runs very high between the Communistic 'ideal' and the democratic 'ideal.' Much talk of sanguinary revolution interests the audiences, more than Christian evi-

Free speech has its il'ng in London's parks and despile the greeth of Communistic teaching from these unrestricted rostrums, there is little reason to suspect that the true temper of the peorle is represented here. Englishmen are sound thinkers and if they are allowed to exhaust their energy in free speech there is little energy left for revolutionary plotting. The recent general election proved this.

The Communist party in England is not growing leaps and bounds, although it does "flourish openly," if one can believe the newspapers. Communist bookshops ply an open trade in Communistic but perhaps these ventures perm't a flame to burn itself out rather than to continually smolder.

"The Red Flag." the hymn of the Communists, is probably heard in London almost as frequently as "God Save the King," but it is not altogether indicative of any w despread anti-royalist sentiment. "The Red Flag" has come to be regarded as the hymn of the people, and as such is indulged in as paean of exultation rather than the song of hopeful revolutionaries.

Communism was widely exploited during the recent election, as opponents of the Labor party harped upon alleged Communistic tendencies of the Laborites. This is despite the fact that in the election the Labor party, after denying the Communists' af.iliat'on, gave instructions that no Communist cand date should have Labor support.

As a matter of fact the Communists and the Laborites are more or less at swords' points. During the regime of Ramsay MacDonald he was regarded as bourgeo sie by the Communists, who allowed no opportunity to pass to embarrass him and his cabi-

Communistic Sunday schools exist in England and there have been repeated demands that the government take action to close these institutions.

The Communist propaganda extends even to the English children, and a Communist newspaper is published for their benefit.

Communism may one day sweep England, but that day now seems a long, long way off, political orators notwithstanding.

It takes healthy gums to keep healthy teeth

Bleeding gums are Nature's first warning of Pyorrhea. Then they begin to recede, lose that rich, pink color. Disease-breeding poisons collect in pus pockets and often drain through the entire system.

If used in time and used consistently, Forhan's will prevent Pyorrhea, or check its progress-something ordinary tooth pastes are powerless to do. It contains just the right proportion of Forhan's Astringent (as used by the dental profession in the treatment of Pyorrhea). It is safe, efficient and pleasant tasting. It takes healthy gums to keep healthy teeth

Bleeding gums are Nature's first warning of Pyor-rhea. Then they begin to recede, lose that rich, pink color. Disease-breeding poisons collect in pus pock-ets and often drain through the entire system. If used in time and used consistently, Forhan's will prevent Pyorrhea, or check its progress-something ordinary tooth pastes are powerless to do. It contains just the right proportion of Forhan's Astringent (as used by the dental profession in the treatment of Pyorrhea). It is safe, efficient and pleasant tasting. Even if you don't care to discontinue your favorite dentifrice, at least start using Forhan's once a day.

Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorthea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all druggists, 35c and 6oc in tubes.

Ethylized Gasoline

For one year and nine months ethylized gasoline has been on sale. It is now being distributed through about 20,000 filling stations covering one-third of the territory of the United States.

About 200,000,000 gallons have been used by more than 1,000,000 motorists with complete safety and satisfaction.

Recently a distressing accident occurred at an experimental plant, where a new process for the manufacture of tetraethyl lead, one of the constituents used in ethylizing gasoline, was under development.

Tetraethyl lead is a poison, as are many raw materials which enter into the manufacture of harmless compounds. Ethylized gasoline consists of 1,300 parts of ordinary gasoline containing less than one part of tetraethyl lead.

This statement is issued to make plain the all-important difference between tetraethyl lead, the raw material, and ethylized gasoline, the commercial product.

Ethylized gasoline is more than an improved fuel, giving smoothness to the motor and eliminating knocks; it is a scientific discovery, which, in its ultimate development, will contribute largely to the conservation of the world's supply of gasoline.

Exhaustive tests have been conducted which have established the safety of ethylized gasoline when used as a motor fuel. These tests have been confirmed by the United States Bureau of Mines. which is making additional studies to determine whether any possible injury can result from continued contact when used for other than motor purposes. Scientific data based on these studies will be submitted to any health commissioner or other public health official on request.

Holliday's Cove council has acted avorably on a charter draft to be presented at the next meeting of the state legislature in January. The pro-posed charter is designed to increase the power and authority and at the same time protect the interests of the people and to promote a stricter conomy in the civil government.

The bill will be laid before the state

The bill is the work of Attorney J. B. Levy, and a committee of the fol-lowing citizens, J. Thomas, J. A. Pur-R. C. Morris, E. D. Rothrock, D. M. Shakley, W. M. Flemingl, and D. F. Sheckler, who have spent months in preparation.

One reform that it makes is that town elections will be held, not by convention, but by a regular primary and regular general election, and that all officers shall serve a term of two years in office, which means that the resent council will serve until 1926. In increases the bonding power of waning strength. The present session of parliament may bring about either a complete reversal for Fascism was struggling against a work is enjoyed.

The comedy characterization encomed acted by Tom Collins also shows a capability above reproach. Collins is cism or it may mean a strengthening of its grip.

The Opposition is determined to absent itself from the Chamber of Depuities, leaving the Fascist government with a chamber composed only of a majority, which majority consists of straight-line Fascists and those co-operating members of non-Fascist parties that by its abstention from participation in the work of Parliament it will be demonstrating its belief unconstitutional manner and that that the nation is being ruled in an unconstitutional manner and that the free will of the people is suppressed

Mussolini's course of action is being anxiously awaited. He may decide to ask the majority to give him virtual powers of dictatorship, in order to govern without a Parliament. There is, however, a section of the majority composed of non-Fascist co-operators, who are opposed to such a course, and they will undoubtedly demand that Mussolini first make overtures to the absentee Opposition. Whether such negotiations would succeed is doubt-

If Mussolini makes overtures to the absent Opposition it is prepared to demand guarantees for a Constitutionalism and government. There are whether Mussolini can afford to negotiate on such a basis. Within his own party there are factions who insist upon Fascism carrying on with no change in policy.

'Mussolini's power is certain to be tested, as well as his control over the more extreme members of his own party. His ability to steer a middle course which will bring peace will be tried to the utmost, and if he veers either to the right or the left he is very apt to bring, at least, political upheaval. The odds are slightly in favor of Mussolini. He has faced crises before and surmounted them, and he has an adaptability to conditions which will serve him in good stead.

Too much praise can hardly be given to Glenn Hunter for his admirand as a climax the posing act of Ce-able portrayal of Merton. His work is the outstanding feature of the picture. Mr. Hunter shows us what happens toga small-town youth who goes to Hollywood, determined to become a movie star. His adventures constitute a heart-gripping epic of pathos and drama, richly woven with ypically American humor and a beautiful love story. Poor Merton! The comedy characterization ension of parliament may bring about acted by Tom Collins also shows a capability above reproach. Collins is cism or it may mean a strengthening

The Opposition is determined to absent itself from the Chamber of Deputies, leaving the Fascist gov-ernment with a chamber composed only of a majority, which majority consists of straight-line Fascists and those co-operating members of non-Fascist parties

The Opposition is of the opinion that by its abstention from participation in the work of Parliament it will be demonstrating its belief unconstitutional manner and that that the nation is being ruled in an unconstitutional manner and that the free will of the people is suppressed.

Mussolini's course of action is being anxiously awaited. He may decide to ask the majority to give him virtual powers of dictatorship, in order to govern without a Parliament. There is, however, a section of the majority composed of non-Fascist co-operators, who are opposed to such a course, and they in tin boxes of twelve tablets for few will undoubtedly demand that Mussolini first make overtures to the absentee Opposition. Whether such negotiations would succeed is doubt-

If Mussolini makes overtures to the absent Opposition it is prepared to demand guarantees for a Constitutionalism and government. There are whether Mussolini can afdoubts ford to negotiate on such a basis. Within his own party there are factions who insist upon Fascism carrying on with no change in policy.

'Mussolini's power is certain to be tested, as well as his control over the more extreme members of his own party. His ability to steer a middle course which will bring peace will be tried to the utmost, and if veers either to the right or the left he is very apt to bring, at least, political upheaval.

The odds are slightly in favor of Mussolini. He has faced crises before and surmounted them, and he has an adaptability to conditions which will serve him in good stead.

Judith of Blue Lake Ranch

But Bud Lee did not wait. He was on his horse, swaying a little an arm caught in a rude sling glad to be out in the late sunlight

"Fog along, little horse," he was saying dully. "Fog right along. She's waiting, little horse. Judith is waiting! Think of that. That's right-fog right

CHAPTER XVIII.

Yes, Judith Was Walting.

At the old cabin above the lake Bud Lee dis mounted. His hand in its rude sling was paining him terribly, demanding some sort of first-aid treat Tomorrow he could take it to a doctor; perhaps in an hour or so he could get Tripp to look to it; just now he must do what he could for it himself with hot water and strips torn from an old

Night had descended, serene with stars. He wondered if the boys were back yet from the lumber camp. He had met them, as Carson had predicted he would, riding in a close-packed, silent, ominous body. He felt assured that they would find no work for them to do at the company's office, that Carson was right and Trevors would "be on his way." But he stopped at the bunk house.

No. the boys hadn't come in yet. But there was a message for Lee, just received by the cook. It was from Green, the forester, brief and to the point:

Green had lost no time in finding the sheriff of the adjoining county at White Rock and in going with him to the cave. They had foun Quinnion. He was dead, the manner of his death clearly indicated. For he lay at the foot of the cliffs straight below the cave's mouth, his face terribly torn and scratched by a man's woman's nails, the mad woman herself lying huddled and still close beside him. He had allowed the escape of her captive; she had accused him after the two of them had gone back to the cavern, had thrown herself upon him, tearing at his face, and the two had fallen. Mother and son? Lee shuddered, hoping within his heart that Judith had been mistaken. It was too terrible.

But, such is youth, such is love. Bud Lee promptly forgot both Chris Quinnion and Mad Ruth as he went throught the lilacs to the house. He remembered how Marcia had flown once to Pollock Hampton when he had made a hero of himself, how again just today she had gone swiftly to him be cause he had made a fool of himself and because it seemed she loved him. In due time there was going to be a wedding at Blue Lake ranch. A wedding! Just one? Lee hurried on,

Yes, Judith was waiting for him. She was there in the living-room, curled up on a great couch, lifting her eyes expectantly as his step sounded on the veranda. A wonderfully gowned, transcendently levely Judith; a Judith of bare white arms, round and warm and rich in their tender curves; a Judith softly, alluringly feminine even in the eyes of Bud Lee, no longer theorist; a Judith whose filmy gown clung lingeringly to her like a sun-shot mist, a Judith whose tender mouth was a red flower, whose eyes were Aphrodite's own, blorious, dawn-gray, soft with the light shining in them, the unhidden light of love for the man who came toward her swiftly; the Judith he had first held in his arms and kissed-

He came in quickly, his heart singing. The color suddenly ran up hot and vivid in the girl's cheeks. Standing over her he put out his hand. But she slipped her own hands behind her.

"Good evening, Mr. Lee," said Judith brightly. "Really, you have taken your time in making your first call. Won't you sit down?"

"No," said Bud Lee gravely. "I'll take mine standing, please!"

"Like a man to be shot at dawn?" cried Judith. "Dear me, Mr. Lee, that sounds so tragic. What, pray, are you taking?"

"A new job," sald Lee. "I've come to tell you that just being horse foreman doesn't suit me any tonger. What you need and need right away is a general manager. That's what I want to be, your general manager, Judith. For life!"

Judith laughed softly, happily. Her hands flew followed them-home.

"You'll find your work cut out for you, Mr. Lee," she told him.

"It's the kind of work I want," answered Bud

Then suddenly her arms went about his neck and tears sprang into her eyes and she set her lips to the cut he had sought to cover with his hair, and took his sore, swathed hand tenderly into her own two hands, laying it against her cheek.

"Carson telephoned me," she whispered, her lips trembling all of a sudden. "He told me how Trevors fought . . . and how you fought! And he was half crying over the telephone, he was so p.o.d of you. And I am proud of you! And oh, Bud Lee, Bud Lee, I love you so!"

From without came the sound of the Blue Lake boys returning, Carson at their head. Riding close together they were singing, their voices floating through the night in an old cowboy song. Mrs. Simpson heard and ran out into the courtyard to listen. Marcia and Pollock Hampton, lost to all save each other in the shadows far down the veranda, listened, and Marcia clapped her hands. The voices were to be heard from afar, the strong voices of a score of men. The strange thing is that neither Judith nor Bud Lee heard; that neither had the vaguest consciousness just then that there were in all the world any other mortals than-Judith and Bud Lee.

The Ideal

Christmas Gift

Men who drive to their business in their own automobiles often find it hard to resist the temptation of offering a free ride to the friend waiting on the corner for the street car. It is a generous impulse that prompts the thought of sharing the vacant seats, but not an all together harmless

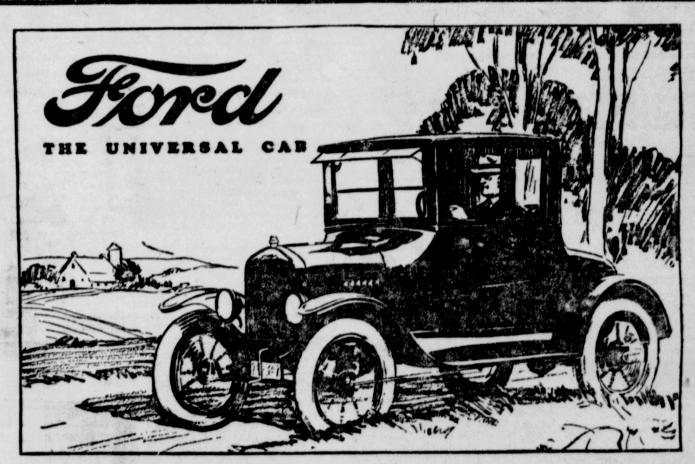

The Courts of Justice, not dealing in sentiment or generous impulses, are inclined to assess large liability damages on the owner of the vacant seat in case of an accident.

Here, for example, is a case in New York. A friend is picked up by a well-intentioned automobile owner and given a free ride. An accident come the free rider is hurt, he sues his benefactor and recovers heavy damages.

The Courte hold that the owner or overator of an automobile is under obligation of exercising reasonable care for the safety, even of an invited guest.

The auch warr generous spirit in such cases and let your friends take the street cars.

W. & J. Has Copped 16 of 22 Games Played.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va.. Nov. 18 .-This year's West Virginia eleven which meets the 1924 Washington & Jefferson college football team in the new Mountaineer stadium on Thanksgiving day has more than one grievance to be righted and is particularly anxious to settle some old scores of several years' standing.

In the first place West Virginia is on the short end of its series with the Presidents. Records on file show that Red and Black teams have captured 16 of the 22 games played since 1891. The Mountaneers have won only five and one game ended with the score deadlocked.

Such a destination is not altogether pleasant from a West Virginia standpoint and the present football squad will attain one of its main objectives if it is able to hold Wash-Jeff at bay and add to the small Mountaineer total. West Virginia has been able to get the best of nearall its rivals, but despite its growth as an institution of learning and a general improvement on the part of its football teams the university has not been able to make much headway against the uniformly powerful eleven produced at "Little" Washington.

Then, too, but for W. & J. the spec tacular winning streak started by the Mountaineers back in 1922 might have been prolonged. It was a supposedly inferior Red and Black team that checked that march last year.

West Virginia has every reason to feel bitter towards W. & J. as President team have most certainly given the Mountaineers some drubbings that no eleven would take without fighting back. The game next week will be the 23nd clash between the two institutions and like all that have gone before is likely to be a sensa-of 22 Games Played.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 18 .-This year's West Virginia eleven which meets the 1924 Washington & Jefferson college football team in the new Mountaineer stadium on Thanksgiving day has more than one grievance to be righted and is particularly anxious to settle some old scores of several years' standing.

In the first place West Virginia is on the short end of its series with the Presidents. Records on file show that Red and Black teams have captured 16 of the 22 games played since 1891. The Mountaneers have won only five and one game ended with the sccre deadlocked.

Such a destination is not altogether pleasant from a West Virginia standpoint and the present football squad will attain one of its main objectives if it is able to hold Wash-Jeff at bay and add to the small Mountaineer total. West Virginia has been able to get the best of nearly all its rivals, but despite its growth as an institution of learning and a general improvement on the part of its football teams the university has not been able to make much headway against the uniformly powerful eleven produced at "Little" Wash-

Then, too, but for W. & J. the spectacular winning streak started by the Mountaineers back in 1921 might have been prolonged. It was a supposedly inferior Red and Brack team that checked that march last year.

West Virginia has every reason to feel bitter towards W. & J. as President team have most certainly given Mountaineers some drubbings no eleven would take without fighting back. The game next week will be the 23nd clash between the two institutions and like all that have gone before is likely to be a sensa tional battle.

Winners Use Second String Team in Third Period.

Laughlin No. 6, basketball, downed their fellow shopmen from No. 5 in a fast clash in the "Y" industrial basketball league on Monday night. The score was 38 to 24.

'Phe No. 6 contingent took an 8 to 6 lead at the end of the first quarter and when the half ended had increased it to 16 to 8.

At the beginning of the third period the leaders sent in their second string performers and the No. 5 quintet cut down the score to an 18 to 14 standing. But the regulars were back in the final period and tacked on 20 points in the one period, while the No. 5 tossers were getting 10. Webb and Jester were the scoring aces for the winners, accounting for 31 of their team's points. Woessner and Berg were high scorers for the losers. Lineup and summary:

Winners Use Second String Team in Third Period.

Laughlin No. 6, basketball, downed their fellow shopmen from No. 5 in a fast clash in the "Y" industrial basketball league on Monday night. The score was 38 to 24.

The No. 6 contingent took an 8 to 6 lead at the end of the first quarter and when the half ended had increased it to 16 to 8.

At the beginning of the third period the leaders sent in their second string performers and the No. 5 quintet cut down the score to an 18 to 14 standing. But the regulars were back in the final period and tacked on 20 points in the one period, while the No. 5 tossers were getting 10. Webb and Jester were the scoring aces for the winners, accounting for 31 of their team's points. Woessner and Berg were high scorers for the losers. Lineup and summary:

Answers to Questions By FREDERICK J. HASKIN.

Q. What cities in the United States pere planned to be capitals? R. J.

A. Only three cities in the United States were planned for capitals. Those cities are Ralph, N. C.; Indianapolis, Ind., and Washington, D. C. Q. Is the family home of William Dawes, who was the friend of Paul Revere, still standing? S. S. R.

A. The first William Dawes who settled in this country arrived in 1635. His home in Sudbury, street, Boston, was the possession of the family for five generations. It was pulled down in 1775 during the occupation of Boston by the British. Q. Has an estimate been made on the amount of damage done by rodent pests in the United States? P. T. D. Such statistics were compiled several years ago when it was estimated that the loss from rodent pests was $300,000,000.

Try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound First. Proved Good Advice

Chicago, Illinois.—"Just a few lines to let you know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I was mar.ied going on for three years, and went to a dector and was taken ing treatments twice a week for pains ev-ery month. I used ery month. I used to lie in bed three or four days with them and the doctor would call and inject some-to put me asleep so I would not feel the pains. At last she said I would have to be operated on if I wanted any children. Well, I just happened to go to see a friend with ner first baby and I told her I was going to the hospital, and she said, 'Don't do it! You go and get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and you won't need any operation.' So my husband got me a bottle right away. Now I have two lovely children. Believe me, I recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman I know has any kind of female woman I know has any kind of female trouble. It has helped me and a lot of my friends."—"Mrs. A.
